Category: Jewellery

Product: Amber teething necklace

Brand: Kanguret

Type/number of model:
Unknown

Description: An amber necklace made out of crystallised conifer resin from fossilised trees. The beads are threaded onto a silk cord, with knots on either side of each bead to prevent all of the beads from falling off if the cord should break, and the necklace closes with a screw clasp. The packaging is a chiffon bag that closes with a draw cord of white fabric with two stickers, one bearing the word "Kanguret", the web address, registered address and telephone number, and the other showing the email address.

Country of origin:
Lithuania

Choking and Strangulation

The product poses a risk of choking because the beads can easily break into small parts that may be swallowed, and strangulation because the necklace is too long.

Withdrawal from the market ordered by the authorities.

Enforcement is a top priority of the EU Consumer Policy Strategy 2007-2013. Both measures leading to RAPEX notifications and measures which come to the attention of the Commission and other Member States as reactions are indications of enforcement activity in the Member State concerned.

In order to give a better view on the overall level of enforcement, including the follow-up activities of the national market surveillance authorities, the Commission RAPEX team has decided to publish on the RAPEX website also the names of the countries that have found the notified product on their market and have taken appropriate measures (and have submitted a reaction to a RAPEX notification as a consequence).

Information about the reacting countries is available in the RAPEX weekly overviews in the column 'Products were found and measures were taken also in'. The Commission RAPEX team will publish reactions sent (from May 2009 onwards) to 2009 RAPEX notifications.
